A. 13638. Letter from King [Edward III] to his son [the Prince of Wales]. Our cousin Anne, late the wife of Edward le Despenser, has shown us that she has no title to the manor of Burghle, co. Rutland, but believes that Waryn son and heir of Gerard del Isle, knight, intended to enter thereon and expel her. She begs us to procure her and her son Thomas an estate in fee of the said manor and offers by letters under her seal on her own and her son's behalf to make an estate in fee to us of the castle of Morende, and certain other lands in Northamptonshire, which belonged to Thomas de Ferrers, knight, near our forest of Whittelwod, as you are well aware; we have accordingly bought the said manor of the said Waryn, who has released his right in it to the said Anne, in her possession, and she has since enfeoffed us and our heirs thereof, to the intent that we may reenfeoff her and the said Thomas thereof, under a certain form, in exchange for the said castle and other lands. Wherefore we, and the said Anne, are now sending her squire, John de Grytford, to the said Thomas to explain the bargain and covenants to him and to show him a charter and letters of attorney, which he is to seal at his mother's request, to complete the exchange, and to bring them back to us. Wherefore we would have you cause and if need be request the said Thomas to seal the said charter and letters without alteration, according to the purport, as we understand of his mother's letters to him, &c. but if he declines to do as his mother desires, and refuses to seal, to have him sent to us in England as quickly as possible with the said John, so that in his presence the affair may be ended in one way or other. Do not omit to do this, clearly understanding that the manor of Burghle is worth four times the castle and other lands which we shall have by the above exchange. Given under the signet of our ring at our manor of Clipston, 4 August, [36 Edward III]. French.

A. 13639. Memorandum of the treaty between counsel on behalf of the king, and counsel on behalf of Dame Anne la Despenser, for herself and her son Thomas, for the castle of Morende.

The lady's demand in consideration of the said exchange is that the king shall cause her to have a release of the manor of Burlegh from Sir Gerard del Isle for whatever claim he may have as heir of Sir Henry del Isle, or by virtue of any entail; which manor the lady has by the gift of the said Sir Henry, to her and her heirs.

Item that Sir William de Ferrers shall receive satisfaction for his remainder in the said castle.

The king's demand is that, if he cause her to have a release of the manor of Burlegh, as above, he shall have the said castle, and Plumpton Pirie, with their appurtenances, all the land, &c. which she has in Yerdelegh Gobyoun, formerly belonging to her husband, Sir Edward le Despenser, and all the lands and tenements which were Sir Henry del Isle's in the county of Northampton.

[Essex.] A. 13660. (1) Libel of Roelanus, rector of the church of St. Mary of Wanestede, addressed to the judge, against the prior and convent of Holy Trinity, London, at 'Halegate'; showing that they have a grange in the parish of the said church, commonly called 'Cann Halle,' for the lands whereof and the beasts fed thereon they are bound to pay tithes to the said church, or its rector, by common law (jure communi); which tithes in his time they have never completely paid, except two quarters of corn, viz. one quarter of rye and one of oats, and this retention of tithes, both greater and lesser, they have practised since his institution, seventeen years ago; he seeks that, notwithstanding any alienations or grants of his predecessors, the tithes be restored, and that they pay in full for the said grange and for the fields called 'Hocfeld,' 'Holnfeld,' 'Bycheryswellefeld' and 'Bromfeld,' and that they pay lesser tithes for the feed of beasts there, according to time and places in which they pasture, and that he be satisfied of arrears, allowing for the two quarters, as above, &c.

(2) Certificate by R. archdeacon of Leicester, Papal delegate, of what was done before his commissaries, the sacristan of the church of St. Mary of the Castle, and Master Nicholas, his official, in the above cause. Roelanus appeared personally, the prior and convent by Nicholas de Cornwall (Cornubya), their proctor; the bull of Pope Innocent Ad audienciam nostram pervenit, dated the Lateran, VII Kal. greater and lesser tithes from the demesne of the said prior and convent at Leytone, in the parish of the church of St. Mary of Wanstede; whereupon, the said Roelanus acknowledged that he had heard and inspected the tenour of certain instruments, to wit, of a composition formerly made, touching the said tithes between the said religious and a certain predecessor of his, rector of the same church, with the consent of the patron, of letters of the diocesan bishop and of the chapter of St. Paul's, London, and of Papal letters; whereby it appeared that the said prior and convent were entitled to retain the said tithes, saving to the rectors for the time being the said two quarters; the rector's suit is accordingly dismissed, &c.
